

The quality of broadcast radio has been quickly deteriorating to the point where it is unlistenable. I, and many others, have been waiting a very long time for the type of service and entertainment provided by satellite entities like XM. Rather than trying to stop XM's progress, broadcast radio should use the tried and true method to improve itself by competing. If broadcast radio gets its way, we, the listeners, will lose.